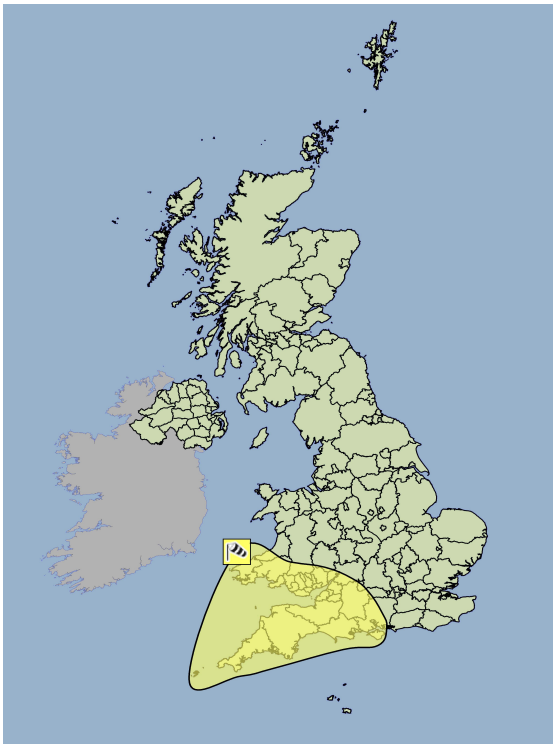
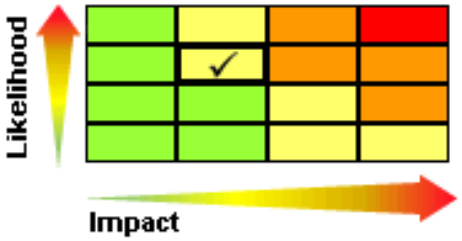
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Winds are already strong in many places though Sunday. However, west to southwesterly winds are expected to increase further during Monday. Inland gusts of 40-45 mph are possible, whilst gusts may exceed 50 mph along the north coasts of Cornwall, Devon and Somerset, and also Bristol Channel coasts of south Wales.

There is some uncertainty over the peak wind strength and also the extent of the strong winds, but given a greater number of people engaged in outdoor activities at this time of year there is a medium likelihood of some minor disruption, with driving conditions perhaps difficult for towing vehicles.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 06:00 on Mon, 27th Jul 2015 until 21:00 on Mon, 27th Jul 2015

Whilst already windy on Sunday, winds are expected to increase further during Monday, becoming very gusty with a risk of gales over exposed coasts and hills.

The public should be aware of the potential for some minor disruption to outdoor activities and difficult driving conditions.
